Donald J. Trump, President of the United States of America
The White House
1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.
Washington, DC 20500

Dear Mr. President:

We write to express our concern with the European Union's Deforestation-free Regulation (EUDR) and to urge your Administration to prioritize this issue in ongoing engagement with the European Union, particularly now that the European Parliament has approved the EU-U.S. trade agreement. The agreement creates an important opportunity for continued bilateral dialogue to ensure the fair and equitable treatment of the U.S. forestry supply chain, and the EUDR should be a central focus of that engagement.

Specifically, we ask that you press the EU to fully recognize the United States as a low-risk country based on our proven record of forest stewardship and demand the removal or substantial revision of unnecessary and burdensome compliance requirements imposed on the U.S. forestry supply chain.

The United States is a global leader in sustainable forest management and the production of sustainable forest products. The U.S. forest and forest products sector supports 4.7 million family-wage jobs, $343 billion in payroll, and $1.27 trillion in sales and manufacturing while maintaining stable forest cover that has remained intact for more than a century. On private forestlands, we grow 53 percent more wood each year than we harvest, demonstrating that the United States can expand domestic manufacturing while continuing to manage forests sustainably.

This success depends on strong forest products markets. Healthy markets help keep private working forests intact by giving landowners the economic ability to continue managing their forests for the long term. These forests supply the wood used in our homes and thousands of everyday products, support good-paying jobs in rural communities, clean our air and water, and provide habitat for thousands of species.

The EUDR threatens to undermine this proven model. Rather than recognizing the United States' record of forest retention and sustainable forest management, the regulation imposes costly, impractical, and unnecessary requirements on U.S. forest owners, manufacturers, and the broader forest products supply chain. In practice, EUDR operates as a trade barrier, creating compliance burdens that are especially difficult for small forest owners and smaller supply-chain participants to meet.

By making it harder for U.S. forest products to reach the European market, the EUDR risks weakening the very markets that help keep forests as forests. Lost or reduced market access will put added pressure on forest owners to convert forestland to other uses, accelerating the outcomes the EUDR is intended to prevent. It will also harm the forest products supply chain at a time when the United States needs strong domestic manufacturing to support housing, rural economies, and broader industrial capacity.

We stand ready to work with your Administration to protect U.S. forest owners, strengthen domestic manufacturing, and maintain our global leadership in sustainable forest management and sustainable forest products.

Respectfully,

The undersigned 1,041 members of the American forestry community, including more than 300 organizations and 700 individuals across the country

cc

The Honorable Jamieson Greer, United States Trade Representative

The Honorable Howard Lutnick, Secretary of Commerce

The Honorable Brooke Rollins, Secretary of Agriculture

The signatories below include more than 300 organizations and 700 individuals from across the country.
